

Make It Main Street: September 2, 2021

Hispanic-American Heritage Month begins on September 15, so we are focusing this Make It Main Street accordingly. In addition to galleries, bookstores, wine-bars, eateries and businesses open later than usual, MIMS will feature a traditional pottery making demonstration in the bustling Makers' Marketplace, multilingual readers taking the stage at Speakers' Space, and live music in several locations, including a chamber trio, a mariachi-influenced trio and local singer-songwriters, and several short folklorico dance & music performances throughout the evening. Stroll the 300-700 blocks of Main Street in downtown Half Moon Bay and discover something new about the hidden talents and passions of the people in our community. Or, sign up for a 10 minute time-slot at Speakers' Space in Mac Dutra Park and tell your story (or a story you love), read a poem or essay to an engaged and interested audience.

We are honored to host the screen debut of Strength: Documenting the Asylum Seeker, a film by Oscar Guerra during September's Make It Main Street. Dr Belinda Arriaga, founder of ALAS is a force behind the film along with local journalism entrepreneur Richard Klein (full disclosure, he chairs the board of directors of Coastside News Group, publishers of the Half Moon Bay Review) as is the Coastal Literary Arts Movement (CLAM). Expect a lively Q&A between screenings during Speakers' Space at Mac Dutra Park. Find out more by visiting Make It Main Street HMB, and coming to Downtown Half Moon Bay on The First Thursday of the Month.
